9838 Quare eiecit infra terminum, is a writ, that lyeth for a leasee, in case where he is cast out of his ferme before his terme be expired, against the feoffee of the lessour, that eiecieth him. And it dif-fereth from the Eiectione Firmæ, because this lieth, where the lessour, after the lease made, infeofeth another, which eiecieth the leasee.
And the Eiectione Firmæ lyeth against any other stranger that eiecieth him. The effect of both is all one: and that is, to recover the residue of the terme. See Fitzherb: Nat: bre: fol. 197. See the Regist: orig:

fol. 227. and the new booke of Entries, verbo Quare eiecit infra terminum.

9839 Quare impedit, is a writ, that lyeth for him that hath purchased a manor, with an Aduowson thereunto belonging, against him that disturbeth him in the right of his Aduowson, by presenting a Clerke thereunto, when the Church is void. And it differeth from the writ called (Assisa ultimæ presentationis) because that lyeth, where a man or his ancestors formerly presented, and this for him that is the purchaser himselfe. See the Expositour of the Termes of Law, and Old Nat: bre: fol. 27. Bract: lib. 4. tract. 2. cap. 6. Brit: cap. 92. and Fitzh: Nat: bre: fol. 32. and the Regist: orig: fol. 30. where it is said, that a Quare impedit is of a higher nature then Assisa ultimæ præsentationis: because it supposeth both a possession and a right. See at large the new booke of Entries, verbo Quare impedit.

9840 Quare incumbant, is a writ, that lyeth against the Bishop, which within six moneths after the vacation of a Benefice, conferreth it upon his Clerke, whilst two others be contending in Law for the right of presenting. Exposition of the Termes of Law, Old Nat: bre:
fol. 30. and Fitzh: Nat: bre: fol. 48. Regist: orig: fol. 32.

9841 Quare intrusit matrimonio non satisfacto, is a writ that lyeth for the Lord against his tenant, being his ward, that after conuenable marriage offered him, marieth another, and entreth nevertheless vpon his land, without agreement first made with his Lord and Gardian. ¶ Termes of the Law.

9842 Quare non permittit, is a writ that lyeth for one that hath right to present for a Turne against the Proprietarie. ¶ Fleta, lib. 5. cap. 16.

9843 Quare non admittit, is a writ, that lyeth against a Bishop, refusing to admit his Clerke, that hath recovered in a plece of Aduowson.
The further use whereof, see in Fitzherb: Nat: bre: fol. 47. and Re-gist: orig: fol. 32. See the new booke of Entries, verbo Quare non admittit.

9844 Quare obstruif, is a writ, that lyeth for him, who hauing a seruitude to passe through his neighbours ground, cannot enjoy his right, for that the owner hath so strenghtened it. ¶ Fleta, lib. 4. ca. 26. §.
Item si minus.

10032 ¶ Rationabili parte bonorum, is a writ that lieth for the wife, against the Executors of her husband, denying her the third part of her husbands goods, after debts and funerall charges defrayed, ¶ Fitzh: nar. b. fol. 222. Who there citeth. cap. 18. of Magna charta, and Glanville, to proue, that according to the common Law of England, the goods of the deceased, his debts first paid, should be diuided into three parts, whereof his wife to haue one, his children the second, and the executors the third ¶ Fitzh: saith also, that this writ lieth as well for the children, as for the wife. And the same appeareth by the Regist: orig: fol. 142. but I take it that this writ bath no use, but in London, and where the custome of the Countrey serueth for it. See the new booke of Entries, verbo, Rationabili parte, & Rationabili parte bonorum.

10033  Rationalibus diuiss, is a writ, which lieth in case, where two Lords in diuers towns haue their seigneuries ioyned together, for him, that findeth his waste, by little and little to haue bene encroched vpon, within memorie of man, against the other that hath encroched, thereby to rectifie the bounds of their seigneuries. In which respect, Fitzh: calleth it, in his owne nature, a writ of right. The Old nat. br. saith also, that this is a Iusticies, and may be removed by a ponce, out of the Countie to the common Banke. See farther the forme and vse of this writ, in Fitzh. nat. b. fol. 128. and in the Regist: fol. 157. b. and the new booke of Entries, verbo Rationalibus diuiss. The Ciuilians call this Iudicium finium regundorum.

Rauishment (Raptus) commeth of the french (rauissement i. direptio, creptio, raptio, raptus, raptura,) and signifieth in our law an vnlawfull taking away either of a woman or of an heire in ward. Some time it is vsed also in one signification with Rape: viz. the violent deflowing of a woman. See Rape. And thereupon is the Writ called Rauishment de gard, otherwise called de hærede abducto, lying for the Lord, whose tenent by reason of his tenure in Knights seruice, being bound, is taken and conueied from him. 10045 K Kalwinge, commeth of the French Ranger, i. astituer, or dinare : or else of the substantive Rang, i. ordo, series. It is used in Common Law, both as a verbe, (as to raunge) and as a substantive (as to make raunge) Charta de Foresta, ca. 6. The word is appropriated to the Forest, signifying the office of the Rawnger. * The Rawnger a sworne officer of the Forest (of which sort there seeme to be twelue) Charta de Foresta, ca. 7. whose authoritie is partly declared in his Office set downe by Manwood, part. 1. of his Forest Lawes, pag. 50. in these words : You shall truly execute the Office of a Rawnger, in the Purlieu of B. upon the borders of the Kings Forest of W. You shall rekease and with your bound driue backe againe the wilde beasts of the Forest, as often as they shall raunge out of the same into your Purlieu. You shall truly prevent all vnlawfull hunting, and hunters of wilde beasts of venerie, well within the Purlieu, as within the Forest. And these and all other offences you shall present at the Kings next Court of Attachements, Swainemote, which shall first happen. So helpe you God. But the same Author setteth downe his Office more particularly in his second part. c. 20. n. 15. 16. 17. The summe whereof is this : A Rawnger is an Officer of the Forest, or to the Forest, but not within the Forest, having no charge of vert, but onely of venison that commeth out of the Forest in his charge, or part of the pourallee, to safe conduct them backe againe. And therefore in those Forests that haue no pourallees, there be no Rawngers, but Foresters serue the turne. This Rawnger is made and appointed by the Kings letters patents vnder the great seale, and for his better encouragement in his dutie, he hath a yeerely fee of 20. 30. pound, paid out of the Exchequer, and certaine fee Deere, boe red and fallow. His Office consisteth chiefly in these three points : ad perambulandum quotidie per terras deafforestatas, ad videndum, audiendum, & inquirendum, tam de malefactis quam de malefactoribus in Balliis suis : ad refugandum feras Forestarum, tam venenis quam chasas, de terris deafforestatis, in terras afforestatas : and ad presentandum omnes transgressores 10082 to Recognisance (Recognitio) cometh of the French (Recognisance, i. agnitio, recognitio, an acknowledging, and in our common Law is thus defined. A Recognisance is a bond of Record, testifying the recognizour to owe to the recognizer a certaine summe of money, and is knowledged in some Court of record, or before some Iudge or other officer of such court, having authoritie to take the same; as the Masters of the Chancery, the Iudges of either Bench, Barons of the Exchequer, Iustices of Peace, &c. And those that be meere recognisance, are not sealed, but inrolled, And execution by force thereof, is of all the recognizours goods, and chatels, except his draughts, beasts, and implements of husbandrie, and of the moitie of his Lands. & West. par. 1. symb. lib. 2. tit. Recognisances, sect. 143. And of these you may see there great diversity of presidents. Note further, that a Recognisance, though in the speciall signification, it doe but acknowledge a certaine debt, and is executed upon all the goods, and halfe the lands of the recognisour: yet by extention it is drawne also to the Bonds, commonly called Statute Merchants, and Statute of the Statute: as appeareth by the Regist: orig. fol. 146. 151. 252. and by West. vbi supra, and others. See Statute Merchants, and Statute Staple. Recognisance hath yet another signification, as appeareth by these words in the Statute. West. 1. c. 36. An. 3. Ed. 1. It is provided also and agreed, that if any man be attainted of disseisin, done in the time of our King that now is, with robbrie of any manner of goods, or moveables, by recognisance of Assise of nouel disseisin, the iudgement shall &c. 10092 to put in Record. Vid. to Register.

Record.

10093 Record (Recordum) cometh of the Latine (Recordari.) The word is both French and English, and in both tongues signifieth an authentical or vncontroulable testimonie in writing. Brit. cap. 27. and Lamb: Eirenari: lib. 1. cap. 13. In the grand Customarie of Normandie, there are seuerall chapters of diuers Records, expressing whose presence in each of the Courts, is sufficient to make that which is enacted to be a record: viz. the 102. chap. where you haue words to this effect. The record of the Kings Court, is a record of things done before the King. All things done before the King, so bee haue one other witnesse. This Record may he and other make. If he himselfe will not make it, it may be made by three others. The next chapter, viz. the 103. sheweth how many persons suffice to make a Record in the Exchequer. The next how many in an Assise, &c. I thinke in our Courts (especially the Kings Courts) we neede not stand much upon the number of Records or witnesses, for the strength of the testimonie which the Record worketh: but that we take it sufficient which is registred in each Court. Glanv: lib. 8. cap. 8. Bract: lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 37. num. 4. Brit: in the Proeme of his booke saith, That the Iustices of the Kings Bench haue a record, the Coroner, the Vicount, Iustices of the Exchequer, Iustices of Goale deliuey, the Steward of England, Iustices of Ireland, Iustices of Chester, Iustices assigned by the Kings letters Patents, in those causes they haue commission to take knowledge of. All which, as I take it, must bee vnderstood with that Caueat of Brooke, sit. Record, num. 20 & 21. that an act committed to writing in any of the Kings Courts, during the terme wherein it is written, is alterable, and no Record: but that terme once ended, and the said act duly enrolled, it is a Record, and of that credit, that admitteth no alteration, or prooffe to the contrary. Yet see my Lo: Cokes Reports, lib. 4. Rawlins case, fol. 52. b. An. 12. Ed. 2. cap. 4. It is said, that two Iustices of either Bench haue power to record Non suites and Defaults in the Countrey. It appeareth by Bract: lib. 5. tract. 2. cap. 1. & 11. that 4. Milites habent recordum, being sent to view a partie effoined de malo lesi, and li. 5. tract. 1. cap. 4. num. 2. that Seruiens Hundredi habet recordum in testimonio proborum hominum. And in the Statute of Carleil, made An. 15. Ed. 2. it is said that one Iustice of either Bench, with an Abbot, or a Prior, or a Knight, or a man of good fame and credence, hath a record in the view of one that is said by reason of sickness, to bee unable to appeare personally for the passing of a fine. And An. 13. H. 4. cap. 7. & An. 2. H. 5. cap. 3. that two Iustices of Peace, with the Shirife or vnder Shirife, haue power to record what they finde done by any in a riot or rout, &c. That which is before mentioned of Brit: touching the Shirife, seemeth to be limited by Fitzh: nat: br: fol. 81. D. Who alloweth him a Record in such matters only, as he is commaunded to execute by the Kings writ, in respect of his office. And thence it cometh that Kirke: fol. 177. saith that the Escheatour and Shirife bee not Iustices of record, but officers of record. In which words he signifieth, that their testimonie is authentical only in some certaine things that are expressly inioyned them by vertue of th'ir commission, as Ministers to the King in his higher Courts, whereas Iustices of Record haue in generalitie a record for all things within their cognisance done before them as Iudges, though not expressly or particularly commaunded. Fitzh: nat: br: fol. 82. in principio, something explaneth this point, writing to this effect: Euery act that the Shirife doth by vertue of his commission, ought to bee taken as matter of record, no lesse then the Iustices of peace. His reasons bee two: the former, because his patent is of record: the other, because he is a conseruator of the peace. And then bee addeth that the Ples held before him in his Countie be not of record. Yet is the Countie called a Court of record. Westm: 2. cap. 3. An. 13. Ed. 1. But it seemeth by Brit: cap. 27. that it is only in these causes, whereof the Shirife holdeth plee by especiall writ, and not those that be holdeth of course or custome. And in that case also it may be gathered out of the same Author, that hee hath a record, but with the testimony of those annexed, that be suiters to the Court. Which seemeth to agree with Bract: wordes aboue specified. Seruiens Hundredi habet recordum in testimonio proborum hominum. And to this purpose Glanvile, li. 8. cap. 8. 9. 10. One Iustice upon view of forcible detinue of land, may record the same by Statute Ann. 15. R. 2. cap. 2. The Maior and Constables of the Staple, haue power to record recognisances of debt taken before them, Ann. 10. H. 6. cap. 1. The King may make a Court of record by his graunt. Glanv: lib. 8. cap. 8. Brit. cap. 121. as for example: Q. Elizab: of worthy memorie by her charter dated 26. Aprilis, An. 3. Regni sui, made the Consistorie Court of the Vniuersitie of Cambridge a Court of Record. There are reckoned among our common Lawyers three sorts of records: viz. A record iudiciall, an attainder, &c. A Record ministeriall upon oath, as an office found. A Record made by conueyance by consent, as a fine, deede enrolled, or such like, & Coke, lib. 4. Andrew Ognels case fol. 54. b.

10094 Recordare facias, or Recordari facias, is a Writ directed to the Shyreue, to remove a cause depending in an inferiour Court, to the Kings Bench, or Common Pleas, as out of a Court of auuncient Demefne, Hundred, or Countie, Fitzh: nat: br: fol. 71. B. out of the Countie Court, Idem, fol. 46. B. or other Courts of Record, Idem, fol. 71. C. & 119. K. Howbeit, if you will learne more exactly, where, and in what cases this Writ lieth, reade Brooke in his Abridgement, titulo Recordare & pone. It seemeth to be called a Recordare, because the forme is such, that it commandeth the Shyreue to whom it is directed, to make a record of the proceeding by himselfe and others, and then to send vp the cause. See Regist: verbo Recordare, in the Table of the originall Writs. See Tertio: part. See also Accedas ad Curiam.

10095 Recorder (Recordator) cometh of the French * Recordur, i. talis persona que in Ducis curia à iudicio faciundo non debet amoueri, & Grand Customarie of Normandie, ca. 107. & 121. Whereby it appeareth, that those which were necessarie Iudges in the Duke of Normandies Courts, were called Recorders: and who they were, is shewed ca. 9. of the said booke. And that they, or the greater part of them, had power to make a Record, it is euident in the 107. chapter. * Here in England a Recorder is he, whom the Maior, or other Magistrate of any Citie or Towne Corporate, hauing iurisdiction, or a Court of Record within their precincts by the Kings graunt, doth associate vnto him for his better direction in matters of Iustice and proceedings according to Law. And he is for the most part a man well scene in the Common Law.

b to Recover or reuine. Vi. to Reuine.

c Reconerie, Recuperatio. It signifieth in our Common Law an obtaining of any thing by iudgement or triall of Law: as Euietio doib among the Ciuilians. But you must vnderstand, that there is a true reconerie, and a fained. A true reconerie, is an actual or recall reconerie of any thing, or the value thereof, by Iudgement: As if a man sued for any land, or other thing moueable or immoueable, and haue a verdict, and Iudgement for him. * A fained reconerie is (as the Ciuilians call it) quædam fictio Iuris, a certaine forme or course set downe by Law, to be obserued for the better assuring of lands or tenements to vs. And for the better vnderstanding of this, reade West: part: 2. symb: tit: Reconeries, sect: 1. who saith, that the end and effect of a reconerie, is to discontinu and destroy Estates, Tailles, Remainders, and Reuerfions, and to barre the former owners thereof. And in this formalitie there be required three parties: viz: the Demaundant, the Tenant, and the Vowhee. The Demaundant is he that bringeth the Writ of Entrie, and may be termed the Reouerer. The Tenant is he, against whom the Writ is brought, and may be termed the Reoueree. The Vowhee is he, whom the Tenant vowcheeth or calleth to warrantie, for the land in demaund, West: vbi supra. In whom you may reade more touching this matter. But for example to explaine this point: A man that is defors to cut off an estate taile in lands or tenements, to the end, to sell, giue, or bequeath it, as himselfe seeth good, vseth his friend to bring a Writ upon him for this land. He appearing to the Writ, saith for himselfe, that the land in question came to him or his auncelors from such a man or his auncelstor, who in the conueiance thereof bound himselfe and his heires to make good the title to him or to them to whom it was conueied. And so he is allowed by the Court to call in this third man, to say what he can for the iustifying of his right to this land, before he so conueied it. The third man cometh not: whereupon the land is recovered by him that brought the Writ, and the tenent of the land is left for his remedie to the third man, that was called, and came not in to defend the tenent. And by this meanes the entaile which was made by the tenent or his auncelstor, is cut off by iudgement heereupon giuen: for that he is pretended to haue no power to entaile that land, whereunto he had no iust title, as now it appeareth: because it is euicted or recovered from him. This kinde of reconerie, is by good opinion, but a snare to deceiue the people, Doct. & Stud. ca. 32. dial. 1. fol. 56. a. This fained reconerie is also called a common reconerie: and the reason of that epitheton is, because it is a beaten and common path to that end, for which it is ordained, viz: to cut off the estates aboue specified.

See the new booke of Entries, verbo Recouerie. A true recouerie is as well of the value, as of the thing: for the better understanding whereof, know, that (in valew) signifieth as much as (illud quod interest) with the Ciuilians. For example: If a man buy land of another with warrantie, which land a third person afterward by suit of Law recouereth against me, I haue my remedie against him that sold it me, to recouer in value, that is, to recouer so much in money as the land is worth, or so much other land by way of exchange, ¶ Fitzh: nat. breu. fol. 134. K. To recouer a warrantie, ¶ Old nat. br. fol. 146. is, to proue by iudgement that a man was his warrant against all men for such a thing.

10105 Recto, is a Writ, called in English, a Writ of Right, which is of so high a nature, that whereas other Writs in real actions, be onely to recouer the possession of the land or tenements in question, which haue bene lost by our auncesors or our selues, this aimeth to recouer both the feisin, which some of our auncesors or wee had, and also the proprietie of the thing, whereof our auncesors died not seised, as of fee: and whereby are pleaded and tried both the rights together: viz: as well of possession, as proprietie. In so much, as if a man once lose his cause vpon this Writ, either by iudgement, by Alsise, or Battell, he is without all remedie, and shall be excluded (per exceptionem rei iudicatæ) ¶ Bract. li. 1. tract. 1. cap. 1. & seq. where you may reade your fill of this Writ. It is diuided into two species: Rectum patens, a Writ of right patent: and Rectum clausum, a Writ of right close. This the Ciuilians call Iudicium petitorium. The Writ of right patent, is so called, because it is sent open, and is in nature the highest Writ of all others, lying alwaies for him that hath fee simple in the lands or tenements sued for, and not for any other. And when it lieth for him that chalengeth fee simple, or in what cases, see ¶ Fitzh. nat. br. fol. 1. C. whom see also fol. 6. of a speciall Writ of right in London, otherwise called a Writ of right according to the custome of London. This Writ is also called Breue magnum de Recto, ¶ Regist: orig: fol: 9. A. B. and ¶ Fleta li. 5. ca. 32. §. 1. A Writ of right close, is a Writ directed to a Lord of auncient Demesne, and lieth for those which hold their lands and tenements by charter in fee simple, or in fee taile, or for terme of life, or in dower, if they be eieled out of such lands, &c. or disseised. In this case a man or his heire may sue out this Writ of right close directed to the Lord of the auncient Demesne, commanding him to doe him right, &c. in his Court. This is also called a small Writ of right, Breue paruum, ¶ Regist: origin: fol. 9. a. b. and ¶ Brit: cap. 120. in fine. Of this see ¶ Fitzh. likewise at large, nat. br. fol. 11. & seq. Yet note that the Writ of right patent seemeth further to be extended in vse, then the originall inuention serued: for a Writ of right of dower, and onely for terme of life, is patent, as appeareth by ¶ Fitzh. nat. br. fol. 7. E. The like may be said of diuers others that doe hereafter follow. Of these see also the table of the Regist: orig: verbo Recto. This Writ is properly tried in the Lords Court betwene kinsmen, that claime by one title from their Auncesors. But how it may be thence removed, and brought either to the Countie, or to the Kings Court, see ¶ Fleta, lib. 6. cap. 3. 4. & 5.

Glanville seemeth to make every Writ, whereby a man sueth for any thing due to him, a Writ of right, li. 10. ca. 1. li. 11. ca. 1. li. 12. ca. 1.

b Recto de dote, is a Writ of right of dower, which lieth for a woman, that hath receiued part of her dower, and purporeth to demand the remanent in the same towne, against the heire, or his Gardian, if he be Ward. Of this see more in the ¶ Old nat. br. fol. 5. and ¶ Fitzh. fol. 7. E. and ¶ Regist: orig: fol. 3. and the ¶ New booke of Entries, verbo Droyt.

c Recto de dote unde nihil habet, is a Writ of right, which lieth in case, where the husband hauing diuers lands or tenements, hath assured no dower to his wife, and she thereby is driven to sue for her thirds against the heire or his Gardian, ¶ Old nat. br. fol. 6. ¶ Regist: orig: fol: 170.

d Recto de rationabili parte, is a Writ that lieth alwaies, betwene priuies blood, as brothers in Gavelkinde, or sisters, or other Coparceners, as nephewes or neeces, and for land in fee simple. For example: If a man lease his land for terme of life, and afterward die, leaving issue, two daughters, and after that the Tenent for terme of life likewise die: the one sister entring vpon all the land, and so deforming the other, the sister so deformed shall haue this Writ to recouer her part, ¶ Fitz. nat. br. fol. 9. ¶ Regist: orig: fol. 3.

e Recto quando Dominus remittit, is a Writ of right which lieth in case, where lands or tenement that be in the Seigneurie of any Lord, are in demand by a Writ of right. For if the Lord hold no Court, or otherwise at the praier of the demandant or tenent, shall send to the Court of the King his Writ, to put the cause thither for that time, (saying to him another time the right of his Seigneurie) then this Writ issueth out for the other partie, and hath this name from the words therein comprised, being the true occasion thereof. This Writ is close, and must be returned before the Iustices of the common Banke, ¶ Old nat. br. fol. 16. ¶ Regist: orig: fol. 4.

f Recto de Aduocacia Ecclesie, is a Writ of right lying where a man hath right of Aduowzen, and the Parson of the Church dying, a stranger presenteth his Clerke to the Church, and he not hauing moued his action of Quare impedit, nor Darrein presentment, within six moneths, but suffered the stranger to vsurpe vpon him. And this Writ he only may haue, that claimeh the Aduowzen, to himselfe and to his heires in fee. And as it lieth for the whole Aduowzen: so it lieth also for the halfe, the third, the fourth part, ¶ Old nat. br. fol. 14. ¶ Regist: orig: fol. 29.

g Recto de custodia terre heredis, is a Writ that lieth for him, whose tenent holding of him in Chualrie, dieth in his nonage, against a stranger that entreth vpon the land, and taketh the body of the heire. The forme and further vse whereof see in ¶ Fitzh. nat. br. fol. 139. and the ¶ Regist: orig: fol. 161.

h Recto sur disclatiner, is a Writ that lieth, where the Lord in the Kings Court, sett in the Common Plee, doth auow vpon his Tenent, and the tenent disclaimeh to hold of him, vpon the disclaime he shall haue this Writ. And if the Lord auerre and proue, that the land is holden of him, he shall recouer the land for euer, ¶ Old nat. br. fol. 150. which is grounded vpon the Statute, ¶ Westm. 2. ca. 1. an. 13. Ed. 1. which Statute beginneth, Quia Domini feudorum, &c.

10106-1 a Rector, B. Rector. I. Regente, rettore, gubernatore. T. Gubernator. G. Recteur, gomerneur. L. Gubernator, a gubernando, a Gr. κυβερνέω, idem, rector a rectus cuius officium administrare rectum, i. iustum. Hoc autem cum sit superioris recte & respectu illius dicitur administrator, ut vel ita se superioris fateatur ministrum recte. Ab illa quoq; dicitur, H. Regidor. P. Gouernador, regedor. Cum autem & necessum sint quibus administrat rectum, horum respectu dicitur. T. Ein regent, regirer herrscher, a verb. herrschen, q. herr sein, i. esse dominum, quod manifesto alludit ad שָׂרָא Sarah, quod significat dominare principatum tenere. hinc שָׂרָא Sar, Princeps. Gr. ἡγεμῶν, ab ἡγεῖν, i. Sisto, iuxta colloco, vel rei alicui præsicio, quoniam quem præsicimus alicui rei illum velut sistimus iuxta illam, & illi admoemus, & respiciamus, ab ἐπισπεύω, i. conuerto, errantem in viam reduco. Quod proprium regimen habentium officium. Heb. נָבִיג, Nabag, i. duxit, est & G. Διοικιστής, a διοικέω, i. familiam administrare.

10106-2 Rector, is both Latine and English, signifying a Gouernour. In the common Law, Rector ecclesie parochialis, is he that hath the charge or cure of any parish Church: qui tantum ius in ecclesia parochiali habet, quantum Prælati in ecclesia collegiata, cap. ult. de De locat. & conduct. in glof. verbo Expelli potuissent. In our common Law, I heare that it is lately ouer-ruled, that Rector Ecclesie parochialis, is he that hath a Parsonage, where there is a Vicarage endowed; and he that hath a Parsonage without a Vicarage, is called Persona. But this distinction seemeth to be new, and subtile præter rationem. I am sure Bract: setteth it otherwise, lib. 2. tract. 5. cap. 1. in these words: Et sciendum quod rectoribus ecclesiarum parochialium competit, Assisa qui instituitur per Episcopos & Ordinarios vt Personæ, where it is plaine, that rector & persona be confounded. Marke also these words there following: Item dici possunt rectores canonici de ecclesijs prebendatis. Item dici possunt rectores, vel quasi, Abbates, Priores, & alij qui habent ecclesias ad proprios vtus. Vid. ¶ a Parson.

b Rectorie, or Parsonage, what the definition thereof is, I referre you to a most learned little booke, of that right excellent scholler, Sir Henrie Spelman, Knight, intituled, De non temerandis Ecclesijs, or a Tract of the rights and respects due vnto Churches. Vide ¶ Parsonage & Patronage.

10107 Rectus in curia, is hee that standeth at the barre, and hath no man to obiect any offence against him. Smith de Rep. Ang. lib. 2. cap. 3. See An. 6. R. 2. Stat. 1. cap. 12.

10108 a Recusant, a recusando. G. T. B. Eyn recusant. Nomen est Angli: quo appellant Romano-catholicos iuramentorum fidelitatis suscipere aut disciplinam Ecclesie reformare subire negantes, seu recusantes.

* The Eyre, generall Sessions of the Forest, or Iustices seat, is to bee holden and kept euery third year: and of necessity before that and such Sessions or Iustices seat can bee holden, the Regarders of the Forest must make their Regard. And this making of the Regard, must bee done by the Kings writ. And the Regard is (as hee afterward there saith) to goe through the whole Forest, and euery Bayliwicke of the same, to see and enquire of the trespasses of the Forest, which hee compriseth in these foure, viz. Ad videndum, ad inquirendum, ad imbreuiandum, ad certificandum. Of euery of which branches you may reade there his exposition. Touching the second signification, the compas of the Regarders charge, is the whole Forest, (that is, all that ground which is parcell of the Forest.) For there may bee woods within the limits of the Forest, that be no parcell thereof, and those be without the Regard, as the same Author plainly declareth, part. 1. pag. 194. and againe part. 2. cap. 7. num. 4. where hee sheweth the difference betweene these words: Infra Regardum or Rewardum, & Infra Forestam.

c a Regarder (Regardator) cometh of the french (Regardcur, i. spectator) and significeth an Officer of the Forest. q Crompt: Iurisdic: fol. 153. where it is thus defined. A Regarder is an Officer of the Forest, appointed to suruey all other Officers. He saith there also, that this Officer was ordained in the beginning of King H. 2. daies. But Manwood in his Forest lawes, part. 1. pag. 188. thus defineth him. A Regarder is an Officer of the Kings forest, that is sworne to make the Regard of the Forest, as the same hath bene used to be made in auient time. And also to view and inquire of all offences of the Forest, as well of Vert as of Venison, and of all concealments of any offences or defaults of the Foresters, and of all other Officers of the Kings Forest, concerning the execution of their offices. He saith there also, that a Regarder may bee made either by the Kings letters Patents, or by any one of the Kings Iustices of the Forest, at his discretion in the generall Eyre, or at such time, as the Regard is to be made, by vertue of the Kings writ, directed to the Shiriffe of the Countie for that purpose. The forme of which writ hee there setteth downe. After that pag. 192. hee setteth downe his oath in these words. You shall truly serue our Soueraigne Lord the King in the office of a Regarder in the Forest of Waltham. You shall make the Regard of the same in such manner, as the same hath bene accustomed to be made. You shall raunge through the whole Forest, and through euery Bayliwicke of the same, as the Foresters there shall leade you to view the said Forest. And if the Foresters will not, or do not know how to leade you, to make the Regard or raunge of the Forest, or that they will conceale from you any thing that is forfeited to the King, you your felues shall not let for any thing, but you shall see the same forfeiture, and cause the same to be enrolled in your Roll. You shall enquire of all wastes, pourprestures, and Asserts of the Forests, and also of concealments of any offence or trespass in the Forest. And all these things you shall to the uttermost of your power doe. So helpe you God. Then you may reade further the particulars of his Office, eadem, pag. 195. And pag. 207. hee saith that their presentments must bee vpon their view, and so recorded, and that the Regarders of themselves haue power to heare and determine the fine or amerciamēt, for expeditating of dogges. Register, containeth the originall Writts of the Common Law. It is the auncientest booke of the Law. For the Booke case and Record of 26. Ed. 3. lib. Assis. placit. 24. proueth directly, that Originall Writts of Assise, and other Originall Writts, had beene time out of minde of man (that is, the beginning whereof cannot bee knowne, either by remembrance, reading, or record) long before the Conquest. And this booke is called Registrum Cancellarie, in the Statute of Westm. 2. cap. 24. because that the Chauncerie is tanquam officina iusticie, all Originall Writts issuing out of that Court. Now for the authoritie thereof, Bracton lib. 5. tractat. de Exceptionibus, cap. 17. fol. 413. saith thus: Breue quidem cum sit formatum ad similitudinem regulæ iuris, quia breuiter & paucis verbis intentionem proferentis exponit & explanat, sicut regula iuris rem quæ est, breuiter enarrat, &c. Sunt quedam formata sub certis casibus de cursu & de communi concilio totius regni coacta & approbata, quæ quidem nullatenus mutari poterint absque consensu & voluntate eorum. Now joining both these authorities together, a man may safely conclude, That this booke is most auncient, and of greatest authoritie, q̄ Coke. I confesse (saith hee) that by force of acts of Parliament in succeeding ages, diuers other Writts originall, in cases newly happening, are (as appeareth in the same) added therunto. And of these auncient Writts I will say, (as Sir Thomas Smith a Secretarie of State said) that all the Secretaries in Christendome may learne of them to expresse much matter in few and significant words. Vide Register.

Registrie (Registrum) commeth of the French Registre, i. liber, librum, codex rationarius, ephemeris, commentarius. It significth with vs, the office, or bookes, or rolles, wherein are recorded the proceedings of the Chauncerie, or any spirituall Court. The writer and keeper whereof is called Registrarius. Register is also the name of a Booke wherein are expressed all the formes of Writts used at the Common Law, called the Register of the Chauncerie, q̄ Ann. 13. Ed. 1. ca. 24. Some say it is termed Registrum, quasi Regestrum, q̄ Prætorius. Vi. Register supra.

Regrator (Regratator) commeth of the French regratêr, i. desquamare. Regratter quelque vieille robbe & la faire neufue, is to scoure or scrub an old garment, and to make it new againe.

Also Regratêur significth as much as Mango in Latine: which kinde of menfold children, and to sell them the better, mentiendi coloris artem optimè callebant: q̄ Martial: & Plin: This word in our Common Law, did aunciently signific such as bought by the great, and sold by retails, q̄ Anno 27. Edw. 3. Stat. 1. cap. 3. But now it significth him, that buieth and selleth any wares or victuals in the same Market, or Faire, or within five miles thereof, q̄ Anno 5. Ed. 6. cap. 14. q̄ Anno 5. 10172 a Relief, relieve, or a relieving, the raising of a person, or of a thing, fallen, and Relief in french (particularly) is the remedie, granted by the letters Patents of a Soueraigne Prince vnto a subiect incommodated, or fallen into an inconuenience, by the sentence of a Iudge, or the dealing of others: and hence Relief d'appel, and Relief pour minorité: also, a reliefe, a fine due, or profit accruing, to a land-Lord upon certaine changes of his hereditarie tenants, so much in the pound according to severall customes in severall places, Relief d'appel in France is an Appeal sued out by commission, from the Chancery, and from the superior Court there appealed vnto, and directed to the Iudge, or Lo: Iusticier of the Court appealed from, thereby to intimate the suite, and proceeding thereof vnto the partie, in respect of whose late recoverie the appeale is brought. Relief de bail, is a yeares profit or value, due vnto a Lord feudall, from him that marries a maide, or a widdow owner of a fief, by any descent or donation, notwithstanding that shee before their marriage haue both paid the relief, and performed all duties, whereunto her estate was liable. The reason is the husband comes in as a stranger; and so must both pay new relief and doe new homage as for his owne fief. Relief de bouche, the acknowledgment of a Vassall or Tenent Cottier, to confesse by mouth that hee holds his Land of such a Lord, Relief de plume, i. a Relief of Feather, that is, a Rent Capon, Cock, Hen, or Poultrye, given in some places in lieu of a Relief, and diuers others in France, &c.

b Relief (Releuium) cometh of the french (Releuer, i. releuare) and significeth in our common Law, a certaine summe of money, that the Tenent holding by Knights seruice, grand sergenty, or other tenure, for the which homage or regall seruice is due, or by soccage, for the which no homage is due, and being at full age at the death of his auncetour, doth pay to his Lord at his entrance, & Bract. lib. 2. cap. 36. giueth a reason why it is called a Reliefe: viz. quia hereditas, quæ iacens fuit per antecessoris decessum, releuatur in manus hæredum, & propter factam releuacionem, facienda erit quedam præstatio, quæ dicitur Releuium. Of this you may reade Brit. cap. 69. in a manner to the same effect. Of this also speaketh the Grand Customary of Normandie, cap. 34. to this effect: It is to be knowne that the Lord of the fee ought to haue reliefe of the lands, which he held of him by homage, when those die, of whom he had homage. And that this is not only proper to vs in Engl: or Norm: appeareth by Rotom: in his Commentaries, de verb. feud. verbo, Releuium. who there defineth it thus: Releuium est honorarium, quod nouus Vassallus patrono introitus causa largitur, quasi morte vassalli alterius, vel alio aliquo casu feudū ceciderit: quod iam à nouo subleuetur: and farther speaketh of it, that which is worth the reading, and containeth great knowledge of antiquitie. See the like definition in Marante singularibus, verbo, Releuium. For the quantitie of this Reliefe, see the great Charter, cap. 2. in these wordes: If any of our Earles or Barons, or any other our tenents, which hold of vs in chiefe by Knights seruice, dye, and at the time of his death his heire is of full age, and owerth to vs reliefe, he shall haue inheritance by the old Reliefe: that is to say, the heire or heires of an Earle for one whole Earledome, an hundred pound: the heire or heires of a Baron, for one whole Baronie, a hundred markes: the heire or heires of a Knight, for one whole Knights fee, a hundred shillings at the most. And he that hath lesse, shall giue lesse, according to the old custome of the fees. Reade also Glanville, lib. 9. cap. 4. fol. 68. who saith that in his daies the Reliefe of a Baronie was not certaine. The heire in francke soccage, when hee cometh to his full age, after the death of his auncetour, shall double the rent that he was wont to pay to the Lord, and that shall be in place of Reliefe. & Old: nar: br: fol. 94. Somewhat more hereof you may reade in An. 28. Ed. 1. stat. 1. and & Kitch: fol. 145. cap. Reliefe. and & Glanville lib. 7. cap. 9. The Feudists also write of this at large. Among others Vincentius de Franchis decil. 121. saith, that Releuij solutio est quedam extrinseca præstatio à consuetudine introducta, quæ non inest feudo, quodq; soluitur pro confirmatione seu renouatione inuestituræ & possessionis. See Heriot. This Leo the Emperour Nouel. 13. calleth ἐνοχέλιον. By the auncienter ciuill Law it is termed (introitus) l. penult. §. Alumno. w. de legatis. & Skene de verb. signif. saith that Reliefe is a french word from the Latine releuare, which is to releuee or take vp that which is fallen. For it is giuen by the tenent, or vassall, being of perfect age, after the expiring of the wardship to his Lord, of whom he holdeth his land by Knights seruice, that is, by ward and reliefe: and by payment thereof he releues, and (as it were) raiseth vp againe his lands, after they were fallen downe into his superiors hands, by reason of wardship, &c.

b Remainder (remanencia) significeth in our common Law, a power or hope to enioy lands, tenements, or rents, after the estate of an other expired. For example, a man may let land to one for terme of his life, and the remainder to an other for terme of his life. & Little: cap. Atturment, fol. 113. And this Remainder may bee either for a certaine terme, or in fee simple, or fee taile, as might be proued by many places in the Law writers. But in steede of the rest, take Brooke, tit.

Glanville, lib. 7. cap. 1. in fine, both these wordes: Notandum quod nec Episcopus, nec Abbas, quia eorum Baronie sunt de elemosyna Domini Regis & antecessorum eius, non possunt de Dominicis suis aliquam partem dare ad remanentiam sine assensu & confirmatione Domini Regis. Where it appeareth that Dare ad remanentiam, is to give away for ever. To the same effect doth he use it, ca. 9. eiusd. libri, in these wordes, speaking of the Lords of maners, during the minoritie of their Wards. Nihil tamen de hereditate, de iure alienare possunt ad remanentiam. In the like sort doth Bract. use it, lib. 2. cap. 23. in fine: and also lib. 4. tract. 2. cap. 4. num. 4. C. lib. 10. tit. 12. num. 7. The Kings Remembrancer entreth in his office all recognisances taken before the Barons for any the Kings debts, for apperances, or for obseruing of orders. He taketh all bonds for any of the Kings debts, or for apperance, or for obseruing of orders, and maketh proces vpon them for the breach of them: He writeth proces against the Collectours of customes, subsidies, and fiueteenths, for their accompts. All informations vpon penall statutes are entred in his office. And all matters vpon English bills in the Exchequer chamber are remaining in his office. He maketh the bills of compositions vpon penall lawes: taketh the statements of debts: maketh a Record of a certificate deliuered to him by the Clerke of the Starchamber of the fines there set, and sendeth them to the Pipe. He hath deliuered to his Office all manner of indentures, fines, and o'ber euidences whatsoeuer, that concerne the assuring of any lands to the Crowne. He yearly in Crastino animarum readeth in open Court the Statute for the elections of Shirifes, and giueth those that chosse them their oath. He readeth in open Court the oath of all the Officers of the Court, when they are admitted.
- f The Treasurers Remembrancer maketh proces against all Shirifes, Escheators, Receiuers, and Bayliffes for their accompts. He maketh proces of fieri facias, and extent for any debts due to the King, either in the Pipe, or with the Auditors. He maketh proces for all such reuenue as is due to the King by reason of his tenures. He maketh a Record, whereby it appeareth, whether Shirifes and other accountants pay their profers due at Easter and Michelmis. He maketh an other Record, whereby it appeareth, whether Shirifes and other accountants keepe their dayes of prefixion. All extreats of fines, issues, and amerciaments set in any Courts of Westminster, or at the Assises or Sessions, are certified into his Office, and are by him deliuered to the Clerke of extreats to write Proces upon them. He hath also brought into his Office all the accompts of customes, controllers, and other accomptants
- to make thereof an entrie of Record. The Remembrancer of the first fruits taketh all compositions for first fruits and tembs: and maketh proces against such as pay not the same.

10239-1 Resceit (Receptio) seemeth to bee an admission of a third person, to pleade his right in a cause formerly commenced, betweene other two. See the new booke of Entries, verbo Resceit. Vid. Aide prier. The Civilians call this admissionem tertij pro suo interesse. Of this you have one example in the Termes of Law. viz: if a tenant for terme of life, or tenent for terme of years bring an action, herein the reuerfion commeth in, and prayeth to be received to defend the land, and to plead with the demandant. Many more you may have in Brooke, tit. Resceite, fol. 205. See Perkins Dower, 448. Resceit is also applied to an admittance of plee, though the controuersie bee but betweene two only. Brooke estoppel. in many places.

10239-2 Resceit of homage, is a relatiue to doing homage. For as the Tenant, who oweth homage, doth it at his admission to the land: so the Lord receiveth it. ¶ Kitchin, fol. 148. See Homage.

10240 Rescous (Rescussus) commeth of the french (Rescours, to Rescure or recover. Se rescours du danger, i. asserere se ab iniuria, to asfirme or assure himselfe out of danger.) It signifieth in our common Law a resistance against a lawfull authoritie: as for example, if a Bayliffe or other officer vpon a writ doe arrest a man, and another (one or more) by violence doe take him away, or procure his escape: this act is called a Rescure. Casian: in his booke de consuet. Burg: bath the same word coupled with (resistentia) fol. 294. whereby it appeareth, that other Nations doe use this word in the same signification that wee doe, or the very like. It is also used for a writ, which lyeth for this act called in our Lawyers Latine (Breue de Rescussu) whereof you may see both the forme and use in Fitzh: nat: br. fol. 101. and the Regist: orig: fol. 125. See the new booke of Entries, verbo Rescous. This Rescous in some cases is treason, and in some felony. ¶ Crompt: Iustice, fol. 54. b.

Nullus autem nisi vxoratus huius officij & dignitatis erat capax. Mortua uxore flaminio abibat, i. he resigned his sacerdotal office. Br. y roi synudd, q. sursum reddere.

c Resignation (Resignatio) is used particularly for the giuing vp of a Benefice into the hands of the Ordinary, otherwise called of the Canons (Renunciatio.) And though it signifie all one in nature with the word (Surrender) yet it is by use more restrained to the yeelding vp of a spiri-tuall liuing, into the hands of the Ordinarie, and Surrender to the giuing vp of temporall lands into the hands of the Lord. And a resignation may now be made into the hands of the King, as well as of the Diocesan, because he hath supremam auctoritatem Ecclesiasticam, as the Pope had in time past. ¶ Plowd: calu Grend, fol. 498. a.

mont to consist of hats (otherwise hoods) badges, and other suites of one garment by the year. ¶ An. 1. R. 2. cap. 7. * These were taken by great Lords, many times upon purpose of maintenance, and quarels: and therefore they have beene iustly, for the better freedome of Law, forbidden by many statutes: as namely by An. 1. R. 2. cap. 7. upon paine of imprisonment, and grievous forfeiture to the King: and againe An. 16. eiusd: cap. 4. & An. 20. eiusd: cap. 1. & 2. and An. 1. H. 4. cap. 7. by the which the Lords offending herein should make ranfome at the Kings will, and any Knight or Esquire hereof duly attainted, should loose his said Liverie, and forfeit his fee for ever: and any yeoman wearing the Liverie of the King, or other Lord, should be imprisoned, and make ranfome at the Kings will, only some few excepted, in the said statute: which statute is farther confirmed, and explained, ¶ An. 2. H. 4. cap. 21. & An. 7. eiusd: cap. 14. & An. 13. eiusd: cap. 3. & An. 8. H. 6. cap. 4. And yet this offence was so deeply rooted, that Ed. 4. was driven to confirme the former Statutes, and farther to extend the meaning of them, as appeareth by the statute made An. 8. Ed. 4. cap. 2. adding an especiall paine of five pounds to every man that giveth such Liverie, and as much to every one so retained, either by writing, oath, or promise, for every moneth. Yet is not this fault so well looked unto, but that there is neede of more pregnant lawes, for the redresse thereof, or at the least better execution of those that be already made. These be by the Feudists called (affidati) Sic enim dicuntur qui in alicuius fidem & tutelam recepti sunt. Neapol. const. li. 3. tit. 7. And as our Retainers are here forbidden, so are those (affidati) in other Countries.

10276-1 to Returne. G. Retourner. I. Ritornare. H. Boluér. Vid. to Turne.

10276-2 Returne (Returna) cometh of the French (Retour, i. reditio, reuersio, recursus.) And in our Common Law, hath two particular applications, as namely the returne of a writ by Sherriffes and Bayliffes, which is nothing but a certificat made to the Court, whereupon the writ directeth him, of that which he hath done, touching the serving of the same writ. And this among the Ciuilians is called Certificatorium. Of Returnes in this significacion, speake the Statutes of Westminster. 2. cap. 39. An. 13. Ed. 1. and Tract. contra Vice comites & clericos, with diuers other, collected by Rastall, tit. Returne of Sherriffes. So is the Returne of an office, Statut. prerog. fol. 70. a certificat into the Court, of that which is done by vertue of his office. See the Statutes of daies in Bank, An. 51. H. 3. & An. 32. H. 8. cap. 21. And in this significacion Hilary terme is said to haue foure returnes: viz. Octabis Hilarij, Quindena Hilarij, crastino Purificationis, Octabis Purificationis: and Easter terme to haue five returnes: viz. Quindena pascha, Tres pascha, Mense pascha, Quinque pascha, & crastino Ascensionis. And Trinitie Terme foure returnes, i. Crastino Trinitatis, Octabis Trinitatis, Quindena Trinitatis, Tres Trinitatis. And Michaelmas terme eight returnes, sc. Octabis Michaelis, Quindena Michaelis, Tres Michaelis, Mense Michaelis, Crastino Annarum, Crastino Martini, Octabis Martini, Quindena Martini. The other application of this word is in case of Repleuy. For if a man distraine cattell for rent, &c. and afterward iustise or allow his act, that it bee found lawfull, the cattell before deliuered to him that was distrained upon securitie, giuen to follow the action, shall now be returned to him, that distrained them. Brooke, tit. Returne d' auers & hommes, fol. 218. You shall finde this word often used in Fitzh: Nat: br: as appeareth in the word Returne in his table: but in all those places it hath the one other otherro these two significacions.

b a Returning backe, or Returne. I. Ritorno, Ritornemento. G. Retour, Retournement. P. Retornado, a re & torno, i. in gyrum mittere. H. Bueltz, quasi voluta, a volvo u. in b. more vstatiissimo mutato. T. Wieder kauft. B. Weide comste, a wieder, i. iterum & kommen, i. venire. L. Reditus, quasi reitus, a reeo. Gr. ἀναστροφή, ab ἀναστροφή, i. reuortor, ἀναστροφής, ab ἀναστροφή, ab ἀνα & στροφή, iterum redeo, ἐπιστροφός, ex ἐπί, & ἀνα, & στροφή, via, recessus. Heb. שׁוּבָה Shuba, a שׁוּב Shub, i. reuerrere. Br. Adwedd, ad-dyfydiad.

c Returno habendo, is a writ, which lieth for him that hath a-nouwed a distresse made of cattell, and proued his distresse to be lawfully taken for the returne of the cattell distrained unto him, which before were explemied by the partie distrained, upon surty giuen to pursue the action. Termes of Law, verbo Repleuin.

d Returnum auerizum, is writ Iudiciall, graunted to one impleaded for taking the cattell of another, and vniust detaining of them, Contra vadum & plegios, and appearing upon summons is dismissed without day, by reason that the plaintife maketh default, and it lieth for the returne of the cattell vnto the Defendant, whereby he was summoned, or which were taken for the securitie of his appearance upon the summons. Regist. Iudiciall, fol. 4. a.

e Returnum irreplegiabile, is a writ Iudiciall sent out of the common ples to the Sherriffe, for the small restitution or returne of cattell to the owner, vniustly taken by another as damage feisant, and so found by the Iury before Iustices of Assise in the Countie. For which see the Regist. Iudiciall, fol. 27. a. b.

10277 Reue, alias Greue (Praefectus) is made of Gerefa the Saxon word, for a gouerner: ¶ Lamb: explic. of Saxon words, verbo Praefectus: and that by reiecting the first syllable, which (he saith) among the Saxons, was vsuall. It signifieth in our common Law, the Bayliffe of a Franchise or Maner, and especially in the West parts. Of this you may see Kirke: fol. 43. See Greue, see Sherriffe. 10394-2 a Route (Routa) is a French word signifying a company or flocke: as (vne grande route de gents, ou de cerfs, i. grex hominum, longa ceruorum series.) It signifieth in our Common Law, an assembly of three persons or more, going on about forcibly to commit an vnlawfull act, but yet doe it not. Westm. part. 2. symb. tit. Indictments, sect. 65. o. Lamb. thus saith of it. A Route is the same, which the Germans yet call Rot, meaning a band or great company of men gathered together, and going about to execute, or executing indeed, any riot or vnlawfull act. And saith more, that it is said properly of the multitude that assembleth themselves in such disorderly sort, for their common quarrels. As if the inhabitants of a towneship doe assemble to pull downe a hedge or pale, to haue their common, where they ought to haue none: or to beate a man, that hath done them some publike offence, or displeasure. But the Statute of 18. Ed. 3. stat. 1. cap. vnico, which giueth procelle of outlawrie against such as bring Routes into the presence of the Iustice, or in affray of the people, and in the statute of 2. Rich. 2. cap. 6. that speaketh of riding in great routes, to make entrie into lands, and to beate others, and to take their wives, &c. doe seeme to vnderstand it more largely. And it is a Route, whether they put their purpose in execution or no: if so be, that they doe goe, ride, or moue forward their meeting. Brooke, tit. Riot. 4. & 5. So (as it seemeth) a Route should be a speciall kinde of vnlawfull assembly: and a riot the disorderly fact committed generally by any vnlawfull assemble: the one, that three persons, at the least be gathered together: for so it is commonly taken at this day, as I haue learned: the other, that they being together, doe breed disturbance of the peace, either by signification of speech, shew of armour, turbulent gesture, or actual and expresse violence: so that either the peaceable sort of men be vniquieted, and feared by the fact, or the lighter sort and buse bodies emboldened by the example. Thus saith Lamb. in his Eirenar. lib. 2. cap. 5. &c. Where you may reade more worth the noting, though too long to be copied out. See Riot, and vnlawfull assembly. Kitchen giueth the same definition of a Route, fol. 20.

b * Sabaoth, omnibus linguis est attributum quod Hebræi tribuerunt Deo Deo exercituum & copiarum, ab Hebr. צבא Tsebhaoth, Tsa-haoth, i. exercitus copiae, a צב Tsa-ba, i. militauit, turmatim conuenit. Sabaoth in all the tongues is also an attribute the Hebrews gave to God, Lord of Hostes, of Armies and Powers, and commeth of the Hebrew word Tsebhaoth, Tsa-baoth, that is, Armies or Powers, and that comes of Tsa-ba, hee hath fought with armies or powers. 10439-1 Sac (Sacha vel Sacca) is a Royaltie or priuiledge touching Plee and correction of trespasses of men within a Maner, & Rastal titulo expof: of words, where be addeth this reason, because (saith he) Sac in English (Encheſon in French, as to ſue for ſuch Sacke, pour quel encheſon, i. for what hurt, that which our Common Lawyers call (Encheſon) the true French man termeth (Achoiſe, i. occaſionem) as (Achoiſe fort grande occaſio ampla) or elſe may Encheſon come of (Encheoir, i. incidere) which we in English call an accident, or incident, but all this is farre enough from (Sac) and from the interpretation thereof, as it is a libertie or priuiledge, & Bracton hath the word, as & Stawford noteth out of his Pl. Cor. lib. 1. cap. 23. but neither of them both doth particularly interpret it: & Bractons words be theſe, lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 8. vel ſi ſit aliquis quis de conſeſſione Domini Regis talem habet libertatem (ſicut Sock & Sack, Tolnetum Team Inſangtheſe & vſangtheſe) qui inuentus fuerit ſeiſtus de aliquo latrocinio ſicut bond habede & backberend, tales habent regalem poteſtatem & unde qui tales libertates habent, habebunt priuilegium ſuum de talibus quia poſſunt tales in Curia ſua iudicare. Of the which matter he ſpeaketh alſo in lib. 2. cap. 24. nu. 2. & 3. and againe, lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 35. But in none of the places he giueth interpretation of the word: Saxon in his Deſcription of England deſineth Sack to be a forfeiture, as doth & Rastall, ubi ſupra, fol. 132. M. Camden in his Britan. ſpeaking of Lincolne, hath theſe words, Eduardo Conſeſſore regnante erant (ex conſuli libro loquor) 1070. Manſiones, hofpitale & duodecim lageman habentes locam & ſacam. To all theſe adde & Bracton, lib. 2. cap. 5. where he writeth thus. Sunt & alie res quaſi ſacre quae perſonam regis reſpiciunt, & aliquando tranſferri non poſſunt niſi iuſticiarum domini Regis ſicut viſus francielegij placita, de vetito nauimio emendatio Tranſgreſſionis Aſiſarum iudicium latronum, ſicut de illis qui habent Sock & Sack, & huiusmodi omnia quae pertinent ad pacem & per Conſequens ad Coronam. e Sanctuarie (Sanctuarium) is a place privileged by the Prince for the safeguard of mens lines that are offenders, being founded upon the Law of mercie, and upon the great reuerence, honour, and deuotion which the Prince beareth to the place whereunto he granteth such a priuiledge. Of this you may reade a sufficient treatise in ¶ Stawnf. pl. cor. lib. 2. cap. 38. This seemeth to haue taken a beginning from the Cities of refuge which Moyses appointed to flie vnto for safeguard of their liues that had by casualtie slaine a man, ¶ Exodus cap. 21. In basildly imitation whereof, first the Athenians, then Romulus erected such a place of immunitie, which they and be after them called Asylum, ¶ Polidori Virg: de inuentione rerum, lib. 3. cap. 12. The Emperours of Rome made the place of their owne Statues or images a place of refuge, as appeareth ¶ Cod. lib. 1. titulo 15. de ijs qui ad statuas confugiunt, as also the Churches, ¶ eodem titulo 12. de ijs qui ad Ecclesias confugiunt. But among all other Nations, our auncient Kings of England seeme to haue attributed most to these Sanctuaries, permitting them to shelter such as had committed both felonies and treasons, so that within fortie daies they acknowledged their fault, and so submitted themselves to banishment: during which time if any man expelled them, if he were Lay, he was excommunicated; if a Clarke, he was made irregular: but after 40. daies no man might releue them, ¶ Stawnf. vbi supra. See of this the ¶ New booke of Entries, verbo Sanctuarie, and ¶ Fleta lib. 1. cap. 29. And how by degrees they haue bene taken away, you may reade partly in him, and partly in the Statutes, ¶ Anno 26. Hen. 8. cap. 13. & Anno 28. eius-

L. Antambulones. Probabile tamen est originem vocis esse à Gal: issir, or issue, q. si vocares Issuers, quod viam præbeant & parent: aut potius à Gal: Asscoir, to settle or set downe, because his office his to set downe the dishes of meate at the table: unde Ital: vocatur Servilore di piatto, a seruant for the platter.

10665-2 Sewar or Sewer, hath two significations with us: one applied to him that issueth or commeth in before the meate of the King, or other great personage, and placeth it vpon the Table: the other to such passages, or gutters, as carrie water into the sea, or river, in Lawyers Latine called Sewers, ¶ Anno 6. H. 6. ca. 5. which is also used in common speech for Commissioners authorized vnder the great seale, to see draines and ditches well kept and maintained, in the marsh and fen Countries, for the better conueiance of the water into the sea, and the preserving of the grasse for foode of cattle, ¶ Stat. Anno 6. H. 6. ca. 5. It is probable to bring this word from the French Issir, to issue or flow forth, or issue, an issue or going forth: as if we should call them Issuers, because they giue issue or passage to the water, &c. And the Latine word Suera sometimes used in these Commissions for these draines, is a competent reason for this coniecture. Vide ¶ Fitz. nat. br. in Oyer and Terminer. For the former word Sewar, I haue heard of an old French booke containing the Officers of the King of Englands Court, as it was anciently gouerned, that he whom in Court wee now call Sewar, was called Asscoir, which commeth from the French Asscoir, to set, settle, or place, wherein his Office in setting downe the meate is well expressed. And Sewer as it signifieth an Officer, is by Fleta Latined Assessor, a setter downe, lib. 2. ca. 15.

b the Sixe Clerks in Chancery (next in degree to the 12. Maſters) are Clerks of ancient continuance, vnto whom belongeth the enrolling of all Patent, Commissions, Licenſes, Pardons, and other Warrants, that paſſe vnder the great Seale of England, whereupon they were called Clerici ſcribentes in Rotulis, as may appeare by certaine Conſtitutions made for the ordning of the Court of Chancery, about 12. of Ri: 2. Since which time the reputation of their places hath increaſed, in ſo much as they haue bene ſpecially aſſigned among other officers to attend at the time of the Kings Coronation, as Herald's Records doe teſtifie. In the 7. yeare of K. Hen: the eighth, there was an Act of Parliament made to licence them to marrie, from which they had bene formerly reſtrained vnder the penaltie of forfeiture of their places.
They are alſo Attorneys for plaintifſes and defendants in cauſes depending in the Court of Chancery, &c.

10937-1 Soc (Soca) is a word signifying a power or libertie of Jurisdiction, as appeareth by these words out of Bracton: Sunt qui Barones & alij libertatem habentes, scil. Soc & Sac, Tol & Thean, Infang-thesfe & Vtlangthesfe, & isti possunt indicare in Curia sua eum qui inuentus fuerit infra libertatem suam seistis de aliquo latrocinio manifestis. Et lib. 3. tract. 2. ca. 6. in the Lawes of King Edw. set out by M. Lamb.
fol. 132. you haue these words: Socha est quod si aliquis querit aliquid in terra sua, etiam furtum, sua est iusticia, si inuentus fuerit, an non. ¶ Saxon in the description of Britanie, cap. 11. saith that Soc is a suit of Court, and that thereof commeth Soken: but the signification of the word commeth from the German Söchen, i. quærere, so that Soc is inquisitio, i. a seeking. The expofitor of the Termes of Law saith thus: Sok is the suit of men in your Court according to the custome of the Realme.

* Socage quid 10937-2 Socage (Soccagium) commeth of the French Soc, & unde. i. vomer, a plow-share or coulter. It signifieth in our common Law a Tenure of lands holden by or for certaine husbandly services to be performed to the Lord of the Fee, as I haue shewed in Chivalrie.

¶ Bracton in his 2. booke, cap. 35. num. 1. describeth it thus: Dicit po-terit Soccagium à socco, & inde Tenentes qui tenent in Soccagio Socmanni dici poterunt, &c. which is as much to say as Tenants or men that hold by seruice of the plow, or plow-men.

Stella, à στέλλω, vel στέλλω, quod est ab Hebr. שָׁלַל Gelas, si transponas literas, i. nituit instar nituis aut stelle. J. Becm: Alijs est à τῆλῶ, ἀστῆρ, i. orior præposito sibilo, ab ἑλῆ, i. splendore, J. Guich: Sunt & qui à stando velint, cum fixæ sint. Sydius, à שִׁיד Seder, i. series stellarum, J. Auenar: unde & quidam à σῶν, & εἶδεν, quia aliquot stelle simul esse conspiciuntur, J. Becm: Sunt & qui à sideo cum occidunt subsidere videatur. Astrum, ab ἄστρον, quod astrum sunt σῶν, J. Becm: vel à Gr. ἀστρον, quod ab à prius: & ἰστρον, i. stare est enim planeta. * Omnia hæc tria inter se differunt. Nam Stella est quælibet singularis, Sydera sunt stellæ pluribus facta, Astra autem sunt stellæ grades ut sunt Orion, Boetes, hæc nomina scriptores confundunt & astra pro stellis & stellæ pro syderibus ponunt. Heb. כוכב Chochab, i. stella sydius contrariam habet significationem verbo כוכב Chabach, i. extinguitur est. Nam stella semper lucet, & minime extinguitur.

11133-2 Starre-chamber, Camera stellata, is a Chamber at the one end of Westminster Hall, so called, as Sir Thomas Smith coniectureth, lib. 2. cap. 4. either because it is so full of windowes, or because at the first all the roose thereof was decked with Images of gilded starres. The latter reason is the likelier, because Anno 25. H. 8. cap. 1. It is written the sterred chamber. Now it hath the signe of a Starre over the doore, as you one way enter therein. In this Chamber, every weeke twice, during the Terme time, and the very next day after Terme, is there a Court held by the Lord Chancellor, or Keeper, and other honorable Personages of the Realme. This Court seemeth to have beginning from the Statute 3. H. 7. cap. 1. whereby it is ordained that the Lord Chancellor and Treasurer of England, for the time being, and the Keeper of the Kings Priuie Seale, or two of them calling to them a Bishop, and a Temporall Lord of the Kings most Honorable Counsell, and the two Chiefe Justices of the Kings Bench and Common Place, for the time being, or other two Justices in their absence, should have power to call before them, and punish such misdoers, as there be mentioned. The faults that they should punish be Routes, Riots, Forgeries, Maintenances, Embraceries, Perjuries, and such other misdemeanors, as are not sufficiently provided for by the Common Law. It appeareth both by Sir Thomas Smith, lib. 2. Rep. Ang. cap. 4. and by experience also, that at this day the whole number of the Princes most Honorable Priuie Counsell, and such other Barons Spirituall, or Temporall as be called thither by the Prince, haue place in this Court, with those about named of this Court, thus speaketh Master Gwin in the Preface of his Reading. It appeareth in our bookes of the Termes of King Edward the fourth, and of the report of cases happening under the usurpation of Richard the third, that sometime the King and his Counsell, and sometime the Lord Chancellor, and other great Personages did use to sit iudicially in the place then, and yet called the Starre Chamber. But for as much as belike that Assembly was not ordinarie. Therefore the next Kings, Henry the seventh, and his sonne Henry the eighth, took order by two severall laws, viz. 3. H. 7. c. 1. and 21. H. 8. c. 2. that the Chancellor assisted with others there named, should have power to heare complaints against Retainours, Embracours, misdemeanours of officers, and such other offences, which through the power and countenance of such as doe commit them, doe lift up the head above other faults: and for the which other inferior Iudges are not so meete to giue correction. And because that place was before dedicated to the like service: it hath ever since accordingly been vsed, touching the Officers belonging to this Court Vide J. Camden.

11166-2 Steward, aliis Stuard, (Seneschallus) seemeth to be compounded of stede and ward, and it is a word of many applications, yet alway signifieth an officer of chiefe account within the place of his sway. The greatest of these is the Lord high Steward of England, whose power (if those antiquities be true which I have read) is next to the King, and of that height, that it might in some sort match the Ephorie among the Lacedæmonians. The custome of our Common-wealth hath upon great consideration and policie brought it to passe, that this high Officer is not appointed for any long time, but only for the dispatch of some speciall business at the Arraignment of some noble man in the case of treason, or such like: which once ended, his commission expireth. Of the high Stewards Court, you may reade q. Crompons Jurisdiction, fol. 82.

Therme, vaporarium Balneum, a Bath or hot-house, because wantons are wont to prepare, or rather to purge themselves for those venereous Acts by often bathing and hot houses. And that this is not new, Homer sheweth in the eighth booke of his Odiss: where he reckoneth hot Baths among the effeminate sort of pleasures. Of these Stewies see the Statute q. Anno 11. 11275 ¶ Subsidie, H. P. Subsidio, I. Susidio, L. Subsidium, is a Taxe or Tribute assessed by Parliament, and granted by the Commons to be leuied of every Subject according to the value of his lands or goods af-ter the rate of iiii. s. in the pound for lands, and ij. s. viij. d. for goods, as it is most commonly used at this day. The manner of assessing every mans lands or goods is this: First there issueth a Commission out of the Chauncerie to some men of honour or worship in every Countie, by vertue whereof to call unto them the Head Constables or Bailieues of every Hundred, and by them the Constable and three or foure of the sub-stantiallest householders in every towne within their Hundred at a day cer-taine: which men so called, or so many of them as the Commissioners thinke good to use, doe rate the inhabitants of their owne towne, in such reasonable manner as they finde meete, yet by the discretion of the said Commissioners. And then every man after his value set downe, must at his time pay to the Collectours appointed, after the rate afore-said. Of these you may see varietie in Rassals Abridgement, Tit. Taxes, Tenths, Fifteenes, Subsidies, &c. whence you may gather, there is no certaine rate, but euen as the two houses shall thinke good to conclude. Subsidie in the Statute of the land sometime confounded with Cu-stome, ¶ Ann. 12. 11300-3 Suite, Secta, commeth of the French Suite, i. following, and so it is taken in our Common Law, but in diuers sensus, the first is a suite in law: and is diuided into suite reall and personall, which is all one with Action reall and personall. Then there is suite of court or suite seruice: that is, an Attendance which a tenant oweth at the court of the Lord. The new Expofitor of the Law-terms maketh mention of foure sorts of suites, viz: Suit Couenant, Suite Custome, Suite Reall, and Suite Seruice. Suite Couenant hee defineth to bee, when your auncester hath couenanted with mine auncester to sue to the court of mine auncesters: Suite Custome, when Land mine auncesters haue bene seised of your owne suite and your auncesters, time out of minde, &c. Suite Reall, when men come to the Sheriffes Turne or Leete, to which court all men are compelled to come to know the lawes, so that they may not be ignorant of things declared there, how they ought to be governed, and it is called Reall, because of their allegiance, and this appeareth by common experience, when one is sworne: his oath is, that hee shall be a loyall subiect to the King. And this suite is not for the land that he holdeth within the Countie, but by reason of his person and his abode there, and ought to be done twice a yeare, for default hereof hee shall be amerced, and not distrained. Vid. Leete. Suite Seruice, is to sue to the Sheriffes Turne or Leete, or to the Lords court from three weekes to three weekes, by the whole yeare, and for default thereof a man shall be distrained, and not amerced. And this Suite Seruice is by reason of the Tenure of a mans land. Moreover, Suite signifieth the following of one in chafe, as Fresh Suite. Lastly it signifieth a Petition made to the Prince, or great Personage.

b Suite of the Kings peace, Secta pacis Regis, Anno 6. R. 2. Stat: 2. cap. 1. & Anno 21. eiusd: cap. 15. & Anno 5. H. 4. cap. 15. is the pursuing of a man for breach of the Kings peace, by Treasons, Insurrections, Rebellions, Trespasses.

11444-3  Tantalus, Iouis filius ex Plote Nympha, is fuit Rex Phrigia, qui Dijs hospitio susceptus, isq; apposuit Pelopem filium suum comedendum. Sola tamen Ceres humerum comedit, alijs abstinentibus. Deinde Pelops vitæ redditus, humerum eburneum recepit. Idem quoq; Tantalus secreta Deorum hominibus indicauit, quapropter apud inferos ita cruciari dicitur, ut ad amenum fluium stans & arborem dulcibus pomis ante se videns, semper tamen esuriat & sitiat. Nam quoties ad potandum se inclinatur, vel ad carpendum pomum manus extendat, & Fluius & arbor ab ipso ita discedunt, ut attingere nequeat, ut Ouid: Querit aquas in aquis. Ita Tantalus dictus quasi Τανταλίσας, i. infelicitissimum, Tantalus sonne to Iupiter and the Nympha Plota, hee was King of Phrigia, and for that hee receiued the Gods to a banquet, and sodde his owne sonne Pelops, and gaue them him to eate, Ceres onely did eate of the shoulder, the rest forbearing that meate, yet Pelops was restored to life, and receiued an Iuorie shoulder for his owne, and also for that the said Tantalus discovered the secrets of the Gods to men, therefore is he said to be thus tormented in hell, that he stands up to the chinne in a pleasant riuer, and a tree of faire fruit hanging ouer, and yet a waies he is plagued with hunger and thirst, for when hee doth either stoope downe to drinke, or reach out his hand to take an apple, they both so retire, that hee can not touch the one, or taste the other, therefore hee may be called Tantalus, quasi Τανταλίσας, i. infelicitissimum, most unhappy.*

11622-3 Tithe, Decima, the tenth part, seemeth to be an abbreviate of Tithing, being the Saxon Teothung, a little altered, which signifieth Decuriam, a Tubing, § Lamb: Explicat: of Saxon words, uerbo Decuria. It signifieth in our Common Law the tenth part of all fruits prediall or personall, which bee due to God, and so consequently to his Minister or Priest, toward the recompence of his paines in his function in instructing his charge how to liue after Gods Commandement, and his continuall Intercession, that he doth or ought to make vnto God, both for their spirituall and temporall blessings, Leuit: cap. 27. vers. 30. yet Couuarruias a Spaniard, with other learned Canonists and Scholemens hold the rate of Tithes not to be necessarily the tenth part of the fruits, by the morall law of God: yet a more Theologicall opinion of other learned Canonists and Diuines, is that they are somewhat touching this, I referre you to a learned little Treatise intituled De non Temerandis Ecclesijs, compiled by that right learned and worthie Sir Henric Spelman Knight.

11622-4 Tithing, Tithingum, is the Saxon word Teothung, for the which see Tithe supra. It signifieth, as M. Lambert faith in his Duties of Constables, the number or company of ten men with their families, cast or knit together in a societie, all of them being bound to the King for the peaceable and good behaviour each of other, of these companies was there one chiefe or principall, who of his offic was called Teothung-man, Tithing-man. It signifieth also a Courte, Tithingman. § Anno 23. Ed. 3. cap. 4. & Anno 9. H. 3. cap. 35. Vid. Chiefe Pledge, Frankpledge, and Decennier.

11637-2 Toll, alias Tolne, or Choll. Tolnetum, alias Theolonium i. a Saxon word, and hath in our common Law two significations: First, it is vsed for a Libertie, to buy and sell within the Preincts of a Mannor, & Lamb: Archaimom: fol. 132. which seemeth to import so much as a Faire or a Marke: The wordes be these: Thol (quod nos dicimus Tholonium) est scilicet quod habeat libertatem vendendi & emendi in terra sua. In the second signification it is vsed for a Tribute or a Custome paid for passage, &c. Braetion. The made Latine word Theolonium Cassian: de consuet: Burgund: pag. 118. deriveth it à Tollendo, of taking. It may rather come from the Originall the Greeke ζελονία or ζελονία, zelonía or zelonía, i. vestigalium exactio, the exacting of Tolle. The Expofition of the Termes of Law saith thus: Toll or Tolne is most properly a payment vsed in Cities, Townes, Markets, and Paires, for goods and cattels brought thither to be bought and sold, and is alwaies to be paid by the buyer, and not by the seller, except there bee some custome otherwise. There are diuers other Tolles.

b Turne-Tolle, that is, where Tolle is payed for beasts that are driuen to be sold, although they be not sold indeede: where I thinke be must meane a Toll payd in the returne homeward from the Faire or Marke.

c Tolle-trauers, that is, where one claymeth to haue a halfe-penie, or such like Tolle, for euerie beast that is driuen ouer his ground, for making a trauers, or crossing the ground.

d Thorow-Tolle is, where a Towne hath by Prescription to haue tolle for euerie beast that goeth thorow their Towne a Certaine, or for euerie score or 100. a Certaine, which seemeth not to be so unreasonable Prescription or Custome as some haue thought, although it be thorow the Kings high way, where euerie man may lawfully goe. Yet if there be a Bridge, or such like commoditie, provided at the costs and charges of the Towne, for the ease of Trauailers that drine that way, whereby the iourney is either shortened or bettered, why then may not Tolle be lawfully, and with good reason, demanded of them, &c. The Feudists call Tolle Parangariam, à Græco παρὰ γὰρ, i. transitus per viam tranfieram.

11637-3 Tolle, Tollere as it is a verbe signifieth to defeat or take away, Anno 8. H. 6. cap. 9.

11792-16 a Turney, or Turname. Vide Etym: in voce superiore & subsequente. It significeth a martiall exercise of Knights or soldiers, fighting one with another in disport, and it is thus defined: Ca. felicis Extra De Torneamentis. Torneamenta dicuntur Nundinae vel Ferie in quibus Milites ex condito conuenire, & ad ostentationem virium suarum & audaciae, temerè congregi solent. This word is used in the Statute Anno 24. H. 8. cap. 13. and it significeth with us in England those Combats that are made with arming swords on horsebacke. And the reason of the name may proceed from the French Tournér, i. vertere, to turne, because it consisteth much in agilitie and nimbleness of turning, both of horse and man: But looke the Etym: and more hereof in the next word above, and the next word beneath.

11851 Wassal, Vassallus, signifieth him that holdeth land in Fee of his Lord, q Hoto: verbo Fendal: We call him more usually a Tenant in Fee, whereof some owe fidelitie and service, and are called Vassalli iurati: some that owe neither, and are called Vassalli Iniurati. But of this later sort in England we have not any: of these thus writeth Hoto-man in his Disputations upon the Feuds, cap. 3. Proprie is vassa dicitur, qui ab Imperatore Regale feudum accepit, Vassallus autem ὑποχρεωμένος, i. diminutiuo nomine, qui ab illo feudale beneficium adeptus est: quasi qui in Vassali fide & clientela est, &c. q M. Skene de verbis: significat: verb. Ligentia, sait, that Vassallus is diuided into Homologum & non homologum. Homologus is he that sweareth service with exception of a higher Lord: and, Non Homologus is hee, that sweareth service without exception, all one with Ligens. And the same Author, verbo Vassallus, sait, that it is Vassallus, quasi Basallus, i. inferior socius, from the French Bas, i. base, low; and the Dutch word Gesel, i. socius: His reason is, because the Vassall is inferior to the Master, and must serve and reuerence him: and yet he is in a manner his Companion, because each of them is obliged one to the other. He sait, further out of Cujacius, lib. 1. de Feud: that Leudes, leodes fideles, Homines nostri, feudatarii, ministeriales, beneficiarii, Beneficiarii, Vassalli, signifieth almost all one thing. And a little after he sait, thus: In the Lawes of the Feuds Vassallus is called fidelis, quia fidelitatem iurat. Among Vassals the first place of dignitie is giuen to them that are Duces, Marchiones, Comites, and are called Capitanei Regni. The second is granted to Barons and others of like Estate, and are called Valuafores Majores. The third to them who are called Gentlemen, or Nobles, holding of Barons, which also may haue vnder them Vassals that bee Gentlemen. And such Vassals holding in chiefe of Barons, are called Valuafores Minores. And they which hold of Gentlemen are called Vassalli, seu minimi valuafores. But in this Realme (he speaketh of Scotland) they that hold of Barons are called Milites, and they that hold of them are called Subuassores, or Subvaluafores. Thus surre M. Skene. - 12082 Un-Joyne, Vnio, is a combining of two Churches in one, which is done by the consent of the Bishop, the Parson, and the Incumbent, and this is properly called an Vnio: Howbeit there be two other sorts, as when one Church is made subiect to another, and when one man is made Prelate of both, and when a conuentuall is made a Cathedral, as you may read in the Glosse of the Chapter, Licet de locato & conducto, in Lyndwoods Provincials § Et quia versu Approbatonis. Touching the vnion in the first signification, there was a Statute Anno 37. Hen. 8. cap. 21. that it should be lawfull in two Churches, whereof the value of the one is not above sixe pound in the Kings bookes of the first fruits, and not above one mile distant from the other.
Vnio in this signification is personall, that is, for the life of the Incumbent, or Reall, that is perpetuall, whoeuer be Incumbent.

- 12084-2 Unite of possession, is called Consolidatio vsus fructus & proprietatis in the Ciuill law, signifying a ioynt possession of two rights by severall titles. For example, I take a lease of land from one, upon a certaine Rent: Afterward I buy the Fee simple. This is an vnite of possession, whereby the lease is extinguished, by reason that I, which had the occupation only for my rent, am become Lord of the same, and am to pay my rent to none but to my selfe. Also an Abbot being seated within a certaine parish, afterward obtaineth an Appropriation of the Tithes belonging to that Church, for the use of his house. Hence is an vnite of possession, by reason that the Tithes which before were to bee paid to the Incumbent, are now to be paid to none but himselfe, by vertue of the Appropriation.

12243-2 to Voucher, and Voucher and Garrantie, or Voucher de Garrantie, and Garrant Voucher, Vouchement de Garrant, i. Vocamenti Garranti, and so a single and double Voucher: A tearment used in the Common Law, brought in first by the Normans after the Conquest; a corrupt word drawn from the Latine Vocare, to call, because it is a writ to call one into the Court to warrant, or make good Lands or Tenements bought with warrantie, for the secure enioying thereof against all men, named in Latine Summo- neas ad warrantizandum: so that Voucher is aduocatio ad warrantizandum, Vide Termes of Law, and New Booke of Entries in Voucher, and Brit: cap. 75. Bract: lib. 5. tract. 4. the Lord Coke, lib. 2. fol. 50. & Lamb: explicationem rerum, & verborum Saxoni- corum in aduocare.

12243-3 to Voucher, Aduocatio, is a calling in of one into the Court at the petition of a partie that hopeth to be helped thereby, & New Booke of Entries, verbo Voucher, Voucher de Garrantie, & Britton, cap. 75. in Latine Aduocatio ad warrantizandum, is a petition in Court made by the Defendant, to haue him called, of whome he or his auncestor bought the Land or Tenement in question, and received warrantie for the secure enioying thereof against all men, & Britton of this writeth a long chapter, ubi supra 75. intituling it Garrant voucher, and Bracton writeth a large Tractate of it, lib. 5. tract. 4. per totum. Littleton also not a little in the last chapter of his Tenures. Of this you may reade Fitzherb: Nat: Bre: fol. 134. De Warrantia Chartæ. All this Law seemeth to be brought out of Normandie into England, for in the grand Customarie of Normandie you haue a chapter intituled Vouchement de Garrant, cap. 50. i. Vocamentum Garranti, where is set downe what time ought to be given for the appearance of the Warrant called in this case, how manie Warrants may be vouched, one calling in another, and diuers other points touching this doctrine. All which, and manie more, you may reade in Bracton, ubi supra, A common Voucher, a double Voucher, & Coke, lib. 2. Sir Hugh Cholmleyes case, fol. 50. b. This is verie answerable to the Contract in the Ciuill Law, whereby the buyer bindeth the seller, sometime in the simple value of the thing bought, sometime in the double, to warrant his secure enioying of the thing bought. But this difference is betwene the Ciuill and Common Law, that whereas the Ciuill Law bindeth euery man to warrant the securitie of that which he selleth, the Common Law doth not so, except it be especially couenanted. The partie that voucheth in this case, is called the Tenant; the partie vouched, is termed the Vouchee; the Writ whereby he is called, is termed Summo- neas ad warrantizandum. Vide Termes of Law, verbo Voucher, and Lamb- ert in his Explication of Saxon words, verbo Aduocare. Vide Garrantie.

Is thought by some a superfluous letter, and is therefore rejected of other Nations, except those that draw their originall vulgar tongue from the High Dutch, as Wee for our English doe, so that the high Dutch, and the Tongues proceeding therefrom, only use the same; For if wee make the proper nature of u vowel in spelling any word, wee shall easily perceive the true use of w therein, as Wade uad, wherein the sound of u vowel is plainly exprest, and not much unlike our oo.

Edward*, set forth by him, num: 33. it is most plaine in these wordes: Et quod Angli vocant Hundredum, supradicti Comitatus vocant Wapentakium: and in the same place be sheweth the reason of the denomination, in these wordes, When any came to take the Gouernement of the Hundred or Wapentake in a day and place appointed, as they were accustomed to meete, all the better sort met him with Lances, and he alighting from his horse all rise vp to him, And he setting or holding his Lance vpright, All the rest come with their Lances, and according to the auncient custome in confirming league and publike peace and obedience, and touch his Lance or Weapon, and thereof called Wapentake, for the Saxon or old Englis Wapen, is weapon, and tac, tactus a touching, thereby this meeting called wapentake or touching of weapon, because that by that signe and ceremonie of touching weapon or the lance, they were sworne and confederate. Thus farre the booke goeth for the word. Take Sir Thom: Smithes opinion also de Repub: Anglor: cap. 16. whose wordes be these, Wapentak, I suppose, came of the Danes, or peradventure of the Saxons. For that so many Townes came by their order then in one place, where as taken a Muster of their Armour and Weapons. 12322-2 a Warren, Warrénna, alias Varrenna, i. viuarium, vel locus in quo vel aues vel pisces, vel feræ continentur, quæ ad victum duntaxat pertinent, * Julius Gellius, lib. 2. Noct. Attica, cap. 20. A Warren, as we use it, is a Prescription or Graunt from the King to a man, of having Pheasants, Partridges, Conies, and Hares, within certain of his lands, * Crompt: Iurisdic: fol. 148. where he saith, None can haue Warren but onely the King, no more then Forest or Chafe, because it is a speciall Priuiledge belonging to the King alone. And a little after he hath words to this effect: The King may graunt Warren to me in mine owne lands, for Pheasants and Partridges onely. And by this Graunt no man may there chase them without my licence. And so of Hares, but not of Conies. For their proprietie is to destroy the fruits of the earth, and to eat corne, and pill the bark of Apple trees. * Manwood in his first part of Forest Lawes saith thus of it: A Warren is a Franchise, or a priuiledged place of pleasure, onely for those beasts and fowles, that are beasts and fowles of Warren, tantum campestris & non sylvestres, viz. for such beasts and fowles as are altogether belonging to the Fields, and not to the Woods, and for none other beasts or fowles. There are two beasts of Warren, viz. Hares and Conies, and there are also but two fowles of Warren, viz. Pheasants and Partridges: And none other wilde beasts or birds haue any firme peace, priuiledge, or protection within the Warren.
If any person be found to be an offender in any such free Warren, he is to be punished for the same by the course of the Common Law, and by the Statute Anno 21. Ed. 3. called the Statute De malefactoribus in Parceis & in Chaceis, &c. For the most part there are no more Officers in a Warren, but the Master of the Game, or the Keeper. A free Warren is sometime inclosed, and sometime it doth lie open. For there is no necessitie of inclosing the same, as there is of a Parke. For if a Parke be suffered to lie open, it ought to be seised to the Kings hands, Thus saith M. Manwood.

daughter vnto Hingist King of the Saxons, as shee was very beautifull, so was shee of a very comely deportement, and Hingist hauing enuied King Vortiger to a supper, at his new builded Castle, caused that after supper shee came forth of her chamber, into the Kings presence, with a cup of gold filled with wine, in her hand, and making in very seemely manner a low reuerence vnto the King, said with a pleasing grace, and countenance, in our ancient language, the Saxon tongue Pa! Heal hlafofd cuning, that is, waes heal hlafofd cuning, which is, being rightly expounded according to our present speech, be of health Lord King, for as was, is our verb of the preterimperfect tense, signifying haue benee, & waes, being the same verbe in the imperative mood, and now pronounced was, is as much to say as grow, bee, or become, and waes-heal, by corruption of pronounciation afterward became to be Wasaile. The King not understanding what shee said, demanded it of his Chamberlaine, who was his Interpreter, and when he knew what it was, hee asked him how he might againe answer her in her owne language, whereof being informed, he said vnto her, o! fine heal, i. drinc heal, that is to say, drinc Withernam.

12452 Witthernam, (Vetum Namium) is in the Common law, when a distresse is taken and driven into a hold, or out of the Countie, so that the Sherife cannot upon the reprieve make delivence thereof to the partie distressed. In which case this Wort of Withernam, or de verito Namio, is directed to the Sherife, for the taking of as many of his beasts, that did thus unlawfully distreine, or as much goods of his into his keeping, till he hath made delivrance of the first distresse. The forme of the Wit is thus, & Fitz: nat: br: fol: 73. Tibi præcipimus quod a veria prædicti B. in balliva tua capias in Withernam, &c. and the Reg: Iudic: fol: 29. a. & 30. a. whereby it appeareth, that the Sherife by these words is willed to take compensation and recompence of the former taking, so many Cattle, &c. It is called Witther nam of the low Dutch, and Saxon word. P. or P. P. the German Witther, i. rursus, againe, and Nam or nam, i. captio, a taking, of nemen, i. capere, to take, as it were a taking againe, as the old Latine word, Repraesalia, a Reprisall, when one taking of mee a distresse, which in Latine is called Pignus, or any other thing, and carrying it away out of the Iurisdiction where I dwell, I take by order of him that hath Iurisdiction, an other distresse of him againe, or of some other of that Iurisdiction, and doe bring it into the Iurisdiction wherein I dwell, that by equall wrong I may come by equall right, Namatio animalium, likewise in Scotland is vied for the pouding of Cattle, as M. Skene saith, de verbor: significat: verbo Averia, whom also reade verbo Namare. Also Witthernam, in G. Bract: lib: 3. tract: 2. cap: 37. and also in West: 2. cap: 2. seemeth to signifie an unlawfull distresse made by him that hath no right to distreine, G. Anno 13. Ed: 1. cap: 2. G. Newbooke of Entries, verbo Withernam, whereof is made this Latine word Vetum Namium, a forbidden taking, or an unlawfull taking, viz: in the first taking or distresse, to take away the meruile of M. Lamherd in his explication of Saxon words, how Witthernam, which is a taking againe, should bee Latined Vetum Namium, a forbidden taking is no longer esse but that the first taking or distresse was unlawfull, and so in law forbidden, and thereof called Vetum Namium.

12502-2 Writ, Breue, is that with our Common Lawye (in Sir Thomas Smith his iudgement, lib. 2. de Repub. Anglor. cap. 9.) which the Ciuilians call Actionem sine formulam. But Action seemeth rather the parties whole suit, and Breue is the Kings Precept, whereby anything is commanded to be done touching the suit of Action: as the Defendant to be summoned, a distress to be taken, a discessin to be redressed, &c. And these Writs are diuersly diuised in diuers respects. Some in respect of their order, or manner of granting, are termed Original, and some Iudicial. Original Writs be those that are sent out for the summoning of the Defendant in a personall, or a Tenant in a reall action, or other like purpose, before the suit beginneth, or to beginne the suit thereby. Those be Iudicial, that be sent out by order of the Court where the cause dependeth, upon occasion growing after suit begunne. & Old nat br. fol. 51. And Iudicial is thus by one signe knowne from the Original, because the Teste beareth the name of the chiefe Iustice of that Court whence it cometh, where the Original beareth in the Teste the name of the King. Then according to the nature of the action, they be Personall or Reall: and Reall be either touching the possession, called Writs of Entry, or the propertie, called Writs of right, & Fitz. nat br. sparsim per totum. Some Writs be at the suit of a partie, some of Office, & Old nat br. fol. 147. Some Ordinarie, some of priuilege. A Writ of priuilege is that which a priuileged person bringeth to the Court for his exemption, by reason of some priuilege. See Procedendo. See the New booke of Entries, verbo Priuilege. Manwood, fol. 1. num. 2. in these words, Sunt sub quolibet horum quatuor ex mediocribus hominibus, quos Angli (legespens) nunchant, Dani verb Pong men, vocant, locati, qui curam & onus tum viridis tum veneris suscipiunt. These M. Camd: in his Britan: placeth next in order to Gentlemen, calling them Ingenuos, whose opinion the Statute affirmeth, Anno 16. R. 2. cap. 4. whereunto adde the Statute Anno 20. eiusd: cap. 2. Sir Tho: Smith in his Repub: Ang: lib. 1. cap. 13. calleth him a Yeoman, whom our Lawes call Legalem hominem, which, as he saith, is in English a free man borne, that may dispnd of his owne free Land in yearly reueneue to the summe of 40. s. sterling. Of these he writeth a good large Discourse, touching their estate and use in the Commonwealth. The former Etymologie of the name be liketh not, making question whether it come of the Dutch Ponker, yea, or no, which in the Low-Countries signifieth a meane Gentleman, or a gay fellow. But be that hath added the Marginall notes to that booke, seemeth to draw it from the Saxon German, which signifieth a married man. M. Verstegan, cap. 10. writeth that Gemen among the ancient Germans, and Geratin among the Moderne signifieth as much as Common. And that the first letter G. in this word, as in many others, turned into Y. and so written Yemen, and that therefore Yemen or Yeomen signifieth as much as a Commoner, in French Roturier. Peoman also signifieth an Officer in the Kings house, which is in the middle place between the Seigeant and the Grooms, as Yeoman of the Chaundrie, and Yeoman of the Scullerie, Anno 33. H. 8. cap. 12. Yeoman of the Crowne, Anno 3. Edw. 4. cap. 5. & Anno 22. eiusdem, cap. 1. & Anno 4. H. 7. cap. 7. This word Pongmen is used for Yeomen in the Statute Anno 33. H. 8. cap. 10.

Aurato princeps Aries in vellere fulgens, Respicit admirans aduersum surgere Taurum, Submissis vultu Geminos, & fronte vocantem:
Quos sequitur Cancer: Cancrum Leo: Virgo Leonem Equato cum Libra die cum tempore noctis Attrahit ardenti fulgenti Scorpion astro,
In cuius caudam contentum dirigit arcum Mixtus Equo, volucrum missurus iamq; Sagittam.
Tum venit angusto Capricornus sidere flexus.
Post hunc inflexam diffundit Aquarius vnam; Piscibus assuetas anide subeuntibus undas.
Quos Aries claudit tangentes vltima signa.

Aries ergo Zodiáci principium est secundum Astronomos, quia verisimile sit multis, mundū à Deo creatū, Sole tenente primū Arietis punctū, Deusq; adeo in lege Moysi preceperit, ut sumerent Iudei initium anni, lebritatem peragerent, cum prius ad Aegyptiorum imitationem incoassent annum ab Autumno. ¶ Fung: Atque hæc præcipua sunt, que hic comunicanda duxi Philologis, Reliqua ab Astrologia scrip: oribus petēda.

12549 Zoilus, a biting Poet, that writ against Homer. G. Zoyle. I. Zoilus.

Zoilo. L. Zoilus. Gr. Ζοῖλος, Amphipolitanus fuit, qui stylum in Homerum strinxit. Vnde ὀυνοποδὲς. Homeromastix, i. Homeri flagellator nancupatus est, ¶ Ouid: lib. 2. de rem: Amor: Ingenium magni liuor detraxit Homeri, Quisquis es ex illo Zoile nomen ha-bens. He was of Amphipolis, hee writ and bit against Homer, and therefore was called Homeromastix, i. a whipper of Homer. Polycratis erat auditor, barbarum submissum alebat, caput ad eum usq; radēbat, pal-lum supra genua pendebat, studiosus malè loquendi, ferendis litibus operam sedulo dabat, contumeliosus denique nequam erat: Rogan-ti aliquando erudito cuidam viro, quamobrem omnibus malè loqueretur, respondit, inquit: Quoniam malè facere cūm velim, non possum, * Canis Rhetoricus nominabatur; Alian: lib. 11. a bbius moribus sumptum teghen Homerum gheschreuen heeft, i. Poëta maleuolus, qui contra Homerum scripsit, een benijder, à benijden, i. inuidere, à nijd, i. in-uidia, een lasteraer, à lasteren, i. calumniari.

12550 a Zone. B. T. G. Zone. I. H. P. L. Zona, à Gr. Ζώνη, i. cingu-lum à ζώνω, ζώνω, cingo. Hac enim sese cingebant & mulieres & milites. Hi enim Zona nummos secum deferre solebant. Illæ eadem ad-stringere ventrem. Hinc de hisce dicebatur * virginem soluit Zonam, i. virgo esse desijt. De illis: Zonam perdidit, i. amisit pecuniam suam. Zona chiefly significeth a souldiers belt, or a marriage girdle.
The souldiers belt was lined within in the inside, where, when they went to warre, they did put their money: whence Horace saith of a man that bath lost his money, Zonam perdidit. Tong maides when they were married, were wont to haue a marriage girdle tied about their middle, which their husband at the first night of their marriage should untie, whence Zonam soluere hath bene translated to deflowre a virgin. Per metaphoram Zona est dictum & de circulis celestibus. Sunt enim quasi tot coe-lorum cinguli, quinque autem numerantur in celo Zone. Frigida due, torridum temperate, torrida vna, ea; propter excessum caloris vix habitabilis, vt nonnullis Cosmographis placet, nec tamen inter se omnes con-ueniunt. Virgil:

Quinque tenent calum Zone, quarum vna cornuco Semper sole rubens, & torrida semper ab igne.
Quam circum extrema dextra leuaque trahentes Cerulea glacie concreta atque imbribus atris.
Has inter, mediamq; dua mortalibus ægris Munere concessa Diuum & via selecta per ambas Obliquus qua se signorum verteret ordo.

Meminit earum Ouidius 10. Metamorph.

Vtq; dux dextra calum totidemq; sinistra
Parte secant Zone, quinta est ardentior illis;
Sic onus inclusum numero distinxit eodem Cura Dei: totidemq; plage tellure premuntur; Quarum que media est non est habitabilis æstu,
Nix tegit alta duas: totidemq; inter utrumq; locatis Temperiemque dedit mixta cum frigore flamma.

Zonas coeli sunt qui fascias, cingula & plagas nominant. Ratio appellationis ex officio & fine manifesta. Cicero in Somn: Scipion: dicit maculas, ab eodem origine quoad nomen. Est & Zona morbi genus, Scribonio, vt qui non secus vt cingulum carnem circumdant.
Et est ignis sacri species, in quo ardor cutim serpentibus minimis pastus exasperat & vrit per artus repens. Vnde & serpens Lucretio. L.
Herpes. Gr. ἱσπῆς, ¶ Dioscorid: ἱσπῶν, Nicandro: ἱσπῶν, i. vnde illud, Polluci. T. Ein eyffe der vmb sich frisset, i. vltim circumda-das. B. Sprengliet, i. ignis sparsus.

* Canis Rhetoricus.
